

China

In China, the Austin College group stayed at the Foreign Affairs College (FAC) in Beijing. Here Amanda Darby, Georgina Michel, Sarah Rush and AC Alumnus Allison Ball write their daily journal for their web site in their dorm room at the FAC.

In Beijing the Austin College group met with their old friend, Ambassador Chen, who is currently the director of the United Nations Organization Association in China. Amb. Chen (in sport coat in the center of the picture) visited Austin College for one week in fall 2000 to give guest lectures on China's foreign policy.

Austin College
2001 ASIANetwork-Freeman Foundation Student-Faculty Research Fellowship
Preliminary Report, September 15, 2001

Members of the Austin College group visit the summer palace in Beijing, with their guide from the Foreign Affairs College, Tom, on right.

The Austin College students at the Summer Palace in Beijing

Austin College
2001 ASIANetwork-Freeman Foundation Student-Faculty Research Fellowship
Preliminary Report, September 15, 2001

The Austin College students visit the Forbidden City in Beijing

Austin College students Caleb Dupuis, Georgina Michel and Mike Dorsey try a Taste of China - Fried Scorpions!

The Austin College group was hosted for a banquet by Amb. Chen Ping Chu and the staff of the UN Association of China. Ambassador Chen is the former Chinese Ambassador to Kenya, and current Director of the UN Association of China.

II. Images with Descriptions

Austin College in Asia ASIANetwork-Freeman Foundation Student-Faculty Research Program

JAPAN

Austin College students Michael Dorsey, Amanda Darby, Caleb Dupuis (left to right in back row) and Sarah Rush and Georgina Michel (in front row) on a JAL flight to Tokyo Narita Airport minutes before taking off on their ASIANetwork-Freeman Foundation supported research program in Asia, May 31st, 2001.

Japan Images cont.

The Austin College student group had the opportunity to visit the Mongolian Embassy in Tokyo, where they had a very informative meeting with L. Dashpurev, a Mongolian diplomat.

During their stay in Japan the Austin College students had the opportunity to do some sightseeing. In this picture Taisuke, a Japanese friend, had taken the group to the Tokyo Metropolitan Government Offices.

Austin College
2001 ASIANetwork-Freeman Foundation Student-Faculty Research Fellowship
Preliminary Report, September 15, 2001

On the first day in Japan the Austin College group met with several members of the Japanese Parliament. In this picture AC Alum Bruce Ellsworth (third from left) poses with the Austin College students and Issei Koga, Member of Parliament and Administrative Director of the Japan-Mongolia Parliamentarians Friendship League.